

```
1 print("python is awesome") # output: python is awesome
2
3 txt = "any text"
4 print(txt) # output: any text
5
6 x = "batoul"
7 y = "diab"
8 print(x, y) # output: batoul diab
9 print(x + y) # concatenation. output: batouldiab
10
11 x = 5
12 y = 2
13 print(x + y) # addition. output: 7
14 print(x, y) # output: 5 2
15
16 x = "5"
17 y = "2"
18 print(x + y) # concatenation. output: 52
19
20
21 x = 101
22 y = "class"
23
24 print(x, y) # output: 101 class
25 # print(x + y) # TypeError: unsupported operand type(s) for +: 'int' and 'str'
26
27 name = "someone"
28 age = 20
29 print("The name is " + name + " and the age is " + str(age)) # output: The name is someone and the age is 20 30
```